

The Center for Reconciliation

SPRING
2019

The Art of Race

Register online at cffri.org.

March 21 / April 18 / May 16

This series hosted in partnership with the RISD Museum uses works and artifacts in the museum collection to have conversations about race in the U.S. today.

Interpreting Slavery & Freedom in New England

March 25 - 26

A two-day workshop for interpreters, educators, and museum and cultural heritage professionals.

Principles of Interpreting America's Racial History

April 22 - 26

A five-day Certified Interpretive Guide (CIG) training course offered in partnership with the National Association of Interpretation.

Slavery, Emancipation and Race in New England

April 29 - June 5

A six-week evening history class taught by Dr. Joanne Pope Melish, with locations in Providence and Westerly.

College Hill & the International Slave Trade

May thru October

A walking tour that connects Providence's Colleg Hill neighborhood to slavery and the local, national and international slave trade. Start booking for private groups as early as April.

The Center for Reconciliation

271 North Main St.
Providence, RI 02903
info@cffri.org
1-401-383-8035

Want to keep up with our events?
Join our newsletter at cffri.org.

The Center for Reconciliation is a nonprofit organization based in Providence, R.I., and dedicated to the work of racial justice and racial reconciliation. We offer a wide range of public programs, exhibitions, and workshops about the history and legacies of slavery, the slave trade, and the construction of race and racial identities in New England and America.